Historical Documents Policies

Introduction

The Historical Document Policy

- 1) is a public document to guide Library staff members and to advise the community;
- 2) indicates the scope of documents to be collected;
- 3) indicates under what circumstances the Library will accept materials;
- 4) establishes a standard of care for the collections; and
- 5) establishes minimum standards of access to the collections;

Statement of Purpose

The South Portland Historical Document Policy is comprised of three parts:

- 1) Collections Policy - a guide to what types of items the Library will accept for its collections, and how its collections will be maintained.
- 2) Acquisitions Policy - a guide to the circumstances under which items can be accepted for the collections.
- 3) Access Policy - a guide to the procedures necessary to balance the competing interests of open public access and document preservation and security.

Historical Records Collections Policy

Scope

Building on the strengths of the Library's existing historical records collections the South Portland ^{Public} Library Staff (SPLS hereinafter) acting through its Director will accept the following types of documents related to the history of the Cape Elizabeth/South Portland area and its citizens;

- a) government records,
- b) private documents and personal papers,
- c) corporate documents and plans.

Record Keeping

Systematic records concerning the Library's collections shall be maintained at all times. These documents include: gift and loan forms signed by donor or lender; records of purchases, if any; insurance documents; object description sheets, catalogue cards, if any; and minutes of any committee meetings held regarding these objects. Additionally, all documents shall be entered into an Access database, or equivalent, as they are processed.

Public Disclosure

A copy of the Historical Records Policy shall be made available to any prospective donor or researcher upon request. Also, a list of materials in the permanent Library collection shall be kept current, and disclosed upon responsible inquiry.

Deaccession

The Library, as a repository of documents, must at minimum comply with all State statutes and regulations governing the disposition of official state and town documents. No documents in the Library's historical documents collections can be disposed of without Town Council approval.

City

Historical Records Acquisition Policy

Circumstances of Acquisition

The Library may accept -- by gift, bequest or other means -- items that are related to the scope of the Library's collections, provided that the following conditions are met:

- a) Title to documents is be obtained free and clear, without restrictions as to access, use or future disposition. Each donor of materials to the Library's collections will be asked to execute a Deed of Gift affirming clear title to the donated property, and transferring all rights to that property, including copyrights, to the Library. The Library is subject to all State of Maine statutes and regulations regarding the acquisition, storage and disposition of government documents.
- b) The Library provides for the storage, protection, and preservation of the objects in a manner that assures their availability for Library purposes and which is in keeping with professionally accepted standards.
- c) The acquisition is approved by the Director and, if necessary, by the Town Council.

Acquisition Criteria

All materials considered for inclusion in the South Portland Public Library

Historical Records Collection must meet the following criteria:

- a) The acquisition must conform to the Library's collecting objectives; selection criteria
- b) The significance of the material must be determined;
- c) The Library must be in a position to professionally care for the proposed acquisition; in need
- d) Acquisitions must be free from donor imposed restrictions;
- e) The present owner (potential donor) must have clear title;

The following additional criteria should be met unless the Director specifically agrees to waive them:

- a) A fair market value must be determined ^{by the donor} (between the parties) and if a purchase is required, the Library must arrange funding prior to purchase;
- b) The material must be documented, if possible, as to provenance;
- c) The acquisitions should include full literary rights, property rights, copyrights, patents, and trademarks;
- d) All legal and ethical implications of the acquisition must be considered.

Means of Acquisition

The Library may accept gifts of historical significance which relate to its collections, and/or the history of South Portland/Cape Elizabeth and its citizens. After the object has been offered for donation, an appropriate staff member will examine its significance as well as compliance with existing collections policy, and make a recommendation to the Director as to whether it should be accepted. Gifts should be ^{offered} accepted unconditionally.

Although the Library, ^{is not} as a repository of historical documents, ^{and is} generally not engaged in the purchase of documents, from time to time there may an instance where a ^{document or} collection is of such significance that the Library feels it should be acquired. In such cases, the items in question should be brought to the attention of the Director, who will make a decision as to whether the Library should pursue acquiring the items under favorable terms, and under existing collections policies.

The Library may, from time to time, chose to borrow items from other institutions or individuals for study or display. These transactions should be in writing and carefully list the terms and conditions of such loan. Loaned articles shall be retained according to agreement or upon the written order of the lender, as per terms stipulated in the donor/donee agreement. In cases of loan, the Library will treat all borrowed objects as if they were its own.

If the Library should decide to loan items to another institution for exhibit, research or any other purpose, the agreement shall be in writing and shall carefully list the conditions of such loan. The Director will be responsible for determining the value of the items to be loaned, and for determining the conditions of the loan.

A formal, reciprocal transfer of materials between the Library and another institution may serve to advance the collections policies of the Library. Such proposals for transfer may be proposed by the Director for action by the Town Council.

Circumstances of Accession

Records of Accession shall be promptly created, entered and retained in the Library's database and related files for all material acquired for the collection. Copies of deeds of gift, invoices and other documents relating to the transfer, including IRS form 8283, shall be placed in a file prepared for each item or collection acquired.

Historical Records Access Policy

Definition

The South Portland Public Library's Access Policy for its collection of historic documents is a written set of procedures to govern the availability of its holdings to researchers and other members of the public. This policy is a guide to the SPLS to enable them to provide equitable treatment to researchers and assure the protection of confidentiality where applicable.

Purposes

- a) To assure that historical records are maintained and utilized in a manner that is consistent with the purpose of protecting these records for the future.
- b) To protect both individual and organizational privacy while allowing fair and maximum use by researchers.
- c) To help the SPLS communicate effectively with researchers and the public about any restrictions on the use of its holdings.
- d) To assist the SPLS in working with researchers, other institutions and publishers in the duplication, lending and publishing of its historical records.

Access to Original Research Materials in the South Portland Library.

- 1) It is the responsibility of the Library to make available original research material in its possession on equal terms of access. Since accessibility of materials depends upon knowledge of their existence, it is the responsibility of the library to inform researchers of the collections in its custody. This may be accomplished through the use of an Access or similar database, which contains document types and categories. The database must be made available by the SPLS, however, the SPLS should not be expected to engage in extended research.

- 2) To protect and ensure the continued accessibility of the material in its custody, the Library may impose several conditions which it should make known to users.
 - a) The repository may limit the use of fragile or unusually valuable materials, so long as suitable reproductions are made available for the use of all researchers. In the case of items that are extremely fragile, the SPLS may make alternative arrangements for access on the part of bona fide researchers. ✓
 - b) All materials must be used in accordance with the rules of and under the supervision of the SPLS.
 - c) The repository may refuse access to unprocessed materials, so long as such refusal is applied to all researchers.
 - d) Normally, the Library will not send research materials for use outside its building or jurisdiction. Under special circumstances, however, a collection or portion of it may be loaned or placed on deposit with another institution, pursuant to a written agreement signed by both parties.
 - e) The Library may refuse access to an individual researcher who has demonstrated such carelessness or deliberate destructiveness as to endanger the safety of the material.
 - f) To protect its holdings, the Library may require that persons wishing to use its materials provide acceptable identification and sign a statement indicating that they have read and will abide by the policies and regulations of the Library.
- 3) The Library should make available to researchers a suggested form of citation crediting the Library and identifying the items within its holdings, and their location, for future reference.

- 4) The Library should inform researchers about known copyrighted material, if any, and the researcher's obligations with regard to such material.
- 5) The Library should not deny access to any person, or persons, nor grant privileged or exclusive use of materials to any person or persons, nor conceal the existence of any body of material from any researcher, unless required to do so by law, donor or purchase stipulations.
- 6) The Library is committed to preserving archival materials and to making them available for research as soon as possible. Therefore, the Library should discourage donors from placing unreasonable access restrictions upon collections in its care. At the same time, it is recognized that the Library has obligations against unwarranted invasion of personal privacy and to preserve the confidentiality in its holdings accordance with law, and that every private donor has the right to impose reasonable restrictions upon his papers to protect privacy or confidentiality for a reasonable period of time.
- 7) It is the responsibility of the Library to inform researchers of the ownership of collections and of any restrictions that may have been placed upon certain collections or archives.
- 8) The Library should not charge any fees for making materials available. However, reasonable fees may be charged for copying of material and for providing researchers with any special services or facilities not provided to the general public.
